It is from numberless diverse acts of courage and belief that human history is shaped. Each time a man stands up for an ideal, or acts to improve the lot of others, or strikes out against injustice, he sends forth a tiny ripple of hope.

From the Executive Director

As I prepare this Annual Report for the year 2010, I am delighted to provide you with a snapshot of the many accomplishments that were achieved in this, our 21st year. So much work went into getting here and so many of you contributed countless hours and many dollars to make 2010 a year of growth like no other. With this report I hope you will see how your support changes lives. I think you will agree that our mission, in providing high quality assist dogs, has a ripple effect throughout our community and the world.

The year started with the transition of our name to Can Do Canines. While it is always hard to make such a change after 20 years, Can Do Canines more accurately represents the diversity of our services in providing not only Hearing and Mobility Assist Dogs, but Diabetes, Seizure and Autism Assist Dogs as well. The new name reflects our growth and vision for the future.

Appropriately enough, with the name change we broke new ground in our Seizure Assist Dog program by graduating the first seizure response dog for VNS (Vagus Nerve Stimulator) in what we believe to be the first of its kind in world. See the related article about Terri Krake and Brody in this report for details.

Strategically the organization had targeted 30 teams to graduate in 2010. Such ambitious goals required state-of-the art facilities and long range planning in advance. I was fortunate to have wonderful volunteers, staff and dedicated donors who for the last three years assisted me in the planning and renovation process to acquire a permanent home for the organization. So in January 2010 we moved into our new home at 9440 Science Center Drive in New Hope, Minnesota.

As part of the 1st phase of the Capital Campaign we were able to renovate more than 50% of our new home. This included a welcoming reception area, staff offices, and a multipurpose room for larger training sessions, graduations and events. Two large training rooms gave us space to increase class frequency and volume. Twelve 6'x 6' indoor kennels with 6' x 12' outdoor runs, an in-take kennel for shelter dogs, a dog kitchen and a medical/grooming room gave our training staff the tools they needed to move our dogs through the training process with greater ease. An apartment-like training area offers training opportunities that simulate client environments for training dogs.

The year also brought us a great deal of publicity. With awareness comes demand. And with demand comes opportunity and the launch of a partnership with the Federal Penitentiary at Sandstone, Minnesota to develop a mutually beneficial puppy raising program at their facility. The timing was perfect since our breeder program was meeting with great success and three litters generated 27 Labrador Retriever puppies in 2010. In addition, 37 dogs were donated by top breeders from five states. Puppies abounded and the organization was able to maximize on the opportunities presented.

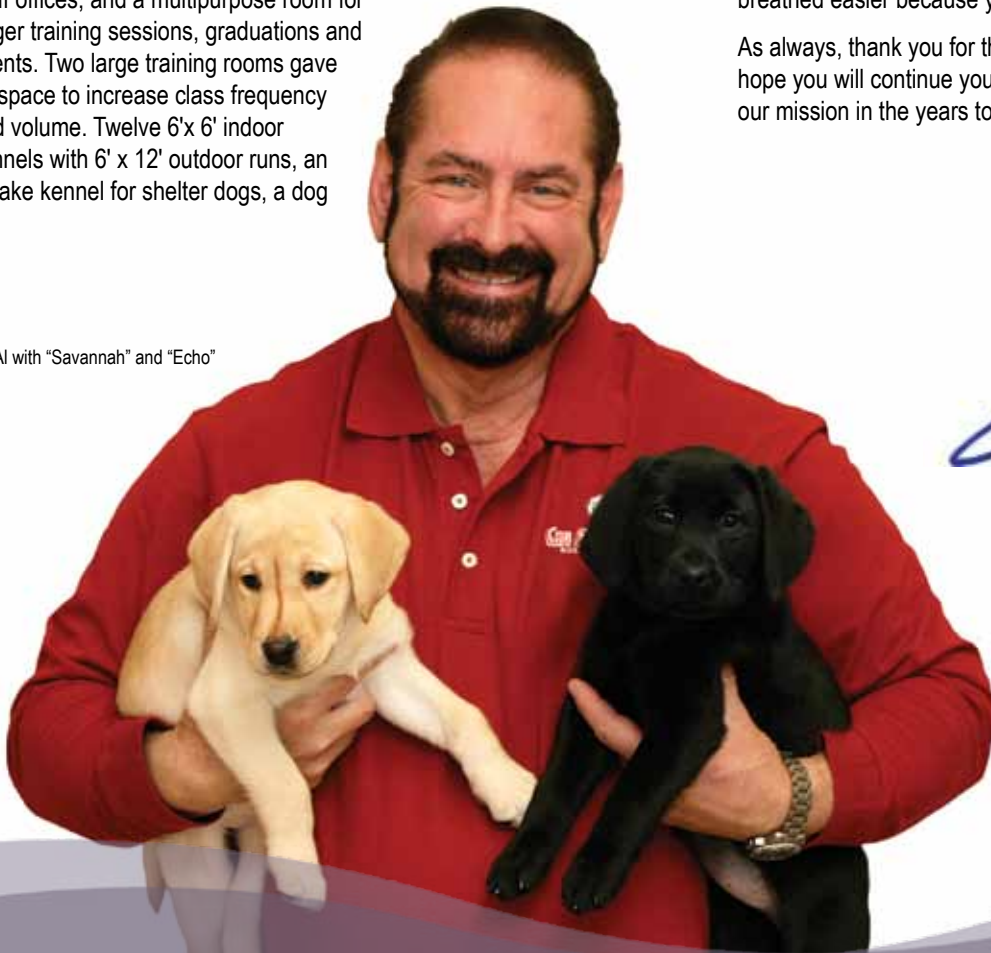

It has been an amazing year. I am so very proud of everyone involved with Can Do Canines and their creative approaches to challenging demands, limited resources and tough economic times. The organization is making a difference by setting high standards that generate the best assistance dogs for our clients.

The stories that follow will take you through how the hard work of our volunteers, board, donors and staff make our dogs available at no charge to the people who need and want them. This is our mission. The stories will show how assistance dogs change lives. And how you, through them, change lives. It is truly a ripple effect.

Your involvement with Can Do Canines, in whatever capacity, touches the lives of those you may never meet. As Ralph Waldo Emerson wrote: "...to give of one's self; to leave the world a bit better; to know even one life has breathed easier because you have lived...this is to have succeeded."

As always, thank you for the role you play in helping us fulfill our mission. I hope you will continue your partnership with us as we continue to carry out our mission in the years to come.

Mobility Assist Dog Baker & Sergeant Corey Briest

Corey Briest of Yankton, South Dakota was stationed in Iraq in 2005 with the Army National Guard when he was severely injured by a roadside bomb. While fighting for the freedom of all citizens, a big piece of Corey's freedom was taken away that day. Two years of recovery in a stateside hospital further separated him from his family as he worked to recover from traumatic brain injuries that left him legally blind and affected his speech, balance and short-term memory. Corey's life would never be the same. He and his family had to learn a "new normal" that would affect his wife and two children.

Therapy appointments and a need for constant care restricted the things Corey and his family had enjoyed so freely before his tour of duty. Wanting to capture as much of his former life as he could, Corey began researching options for assistance. They considered the idea of an assistance dog and after reviewing numerous organizations, selected Can Do Canines. The fact that the trainer would travel to their home to work with them, and the organization's policy of providing the dogs at no cost to the client, made this the perfect choice for the Briest family.

Baker, a 2-year old black Labrador Retriever was matched with Corey and in the summer of 2010 the introductions were made. Can Do Canines trainer, Leslie Flowers, was assigned to the Corey/Baker team and traveled to Yankton on a regular basis. In between Leslie's visit, local field trainer, Bill Sohl, worked with Corey and Baker. The two bonded quickly and the benefits became obvious to the whole family.

Baker's harness serves as a crutch for Corey to hold which helps with his balance as he walks. By helping with these simple things, Baker gives Corey and his family a new sense of freedom.

Baker is now a constant companion. Family and friends say the dog's presence has lowered Corey's frustration with his physical therapy, allowing for greater progress. The family feels they have seen major improvements to Corey's outlook which makes all of them feel like they have their husband and father back! When asked what he would tell other wounded warriors about the freedom an assistance dog can provide, he smiles and says: "Go for it! It's hard work but totally worth it."

Hearing Assist Dog Lily & Jennifer Schmidt

Independence Comes to Jenn with Hearing Assist Dog, Lily

Being on your own is the dream of most young adults. But for Jenn Schmidt of Eden Prairie, Minnesota, being independent was going to be a hard fought battle. Her severe hearing loss made it unsafe for her to be on her own because she was not able to identify important sounds that most of us take for granted.

Jenn's sister, Elly, a recent veterinary tech graduate, learned about Hearing Assist Dogs through her training. She was impressed with how a dog could provide a person, like her sister, with the assistance she needed to live a more independent life-style.

With encouragement from her family, Jenn contacted Can Do Canines. After attending a tour of the organization's facilities, Jenn learned that they provided specially trained dogs, at no cost, to individuals just like her. Almost immediately she submitted her application and waited for the news that a Hearing Assist Dog was available. On her application she stressed the impact a dog could make in her life allowing her to live more independently by serving as her "ears". The dog could also reduce her anxiety that she noticed was increasing as she gets older.

"I have so much more confidence and an increased sense of independence now."

Around the time Jenn submitted her application, a petite black mixed-breed dog, by the name of Lily, was being trained at the organization and demonstrated all the skills needed to be the perfect match for Jenn. Training began and the two bonded immediately.

Lily had already learned the basics for a Hearing Assist Dog; identifying the sounds of an alarm clock, smoke detector, doorbell, oven timer and intruder alerts. Together the two worked on the sounds involved specifically with Jenn's home and daily routine.

The two make a great team, and when they completed their training and were ready to put it into practice in the real world, Jenn remembers feeling a great deal of pride and a sense of independence she did not feel before Lily arrived. She now had the "ears" she needed in Lily. She is the first to tell someone considering an assistance dog not to wait. "The rewards are amazing," Jenn boasts. "I have so much more confidence and an increased sense of independence now. It's so worth it."

Diabetes Assist Dog Griffin & John Fraedrich

Without question John Fraedrich of Anoka, Minnesota was a self-proclaimed “outdoorsman” and his friends wouldn’t argue that title. So how could it be that this active, avid lover of the outdoors was becoming increasingly home bound, uncomfortable about driving and apprehensive about being outside of his house?

Diagnosed with Type 1 Diabetes 30 years ago, John was seeing a rapid swing in his blood sugar and hypoglycemic unawareness (the inability to detect the onset of low blood sugars) causing him and his family increased concern. His doctors were telling him that his condition might be life-threatening and that he might not see an improvement.

After attending an American Diabetes Association Expo in 2009, John and his wife observed a number of conference attendees with dogs wearing “assistance dog” capes. Upon further research they learned more about the benefits of a Diabetes Assist Dog and located Can Do Canines in their own backyard.

With high hopes, John applied and was selected to receive a beautiful Australian Labradoodle named Griffin. “The bond was instantaneous,” remembers John. “It was almost like it was destined.”

People often ask how a dog assists a person with Diabetes. Diabetes Assist Dogs are trained to locate and “fetch” emergency phones, bring bottles of glucose tablets, seek help from others nearby and, most importantly, to check for low blood sugar levels in their human partner. This training helps to keep John safe when his hypoglycemia kicks in.

Working with Can Do Canines’ trainer, Ramona Elder, Griffin learned the specific skills that matched John’s needs. But Griffin was prepared for anything, and tried to help in many other ways too. “He just wanted to help John in any way he could”, notes Ramona. “They are a true team.”

John and his family realized that after Griffin became part of their family, the number of emergency calls diminished significantly. The fear that was associated with his Diabetes diminished for his family and they were able to focus on the more important things in life.

John notes that Griffin has detected almost every low blood sugar level. John has had since joining the family—which makes family life a lot less stressful. Family members sleep better and worry less about John knowing he is well taken care of with his constant companion, Griffin.

Seizure Assist Dog Brody & Terri Krake

Having an unusual disability can isolate a person. Family and friends are affected as well. Having an assistance dog for many years and then losing them to a disease can send the person back to ground zero. That was the case for Terri Krake of Minneapolis, Minnesota.

Diagnosed with seizures related to a brain stem injury and the death of her long time service dog to cancer resulted in limiting her trips outside to just doctor appointments. Her independence was gone and she was experiencing more frequent and severe seizures.

New technology was coming on the market that could limit such seizures. The device, called vagus nerve stimulator (VNS), was offered to Terri by her doctor as an option to give her more control over her life. The small device, implanted in her neck and triggered by a special magnet, sends small electronic pulses to the brain via the vagus nerve in the neck. In most cases the device shortens or completely stops such seizures.

The implant procedure was successful. However, Terri often had trouble locating the magnet in time to activate the VNS before losing consciousness. Her family began seeing Terri giving up on the ability of the device to work for her, and giving up on life in general.

Two years of encouragement from her doctors and family brought Terri to Can Do Canines to talk about this unusual need for one of their dogs. While the organization provided Seizure Assist Dogs, Terri’s needs were very specific and a training protocol for this need had not been developed by any assistance dog program in the country to the best of anyone’s knowledge.

Together with Terri, her medical team, family and friends, the Can Do Canines training staff customized a training program for Brody that not only included the standards for a Seizure Assist Dog, but most importantly, how to interact with Terri’s implant. Brody wears the VNS magnet, needed to activate Terri’s implant, on his collar. The command “settle” brings Brody to lay across Terri’s chest with his nose nestled in her neck. Contact with his collar sets off the implant and it responds accordingly to shorten or stop the seizure. The weight of Brody on Terri also helps to keep her calm and shortens her recovery time.

As they have bonded as a team, Brody has become intuitive to Terri’s needs. At one point Terri blacked out prior to being able to give the command to “settle” but Brody knew the routine, laying across her chest and barking until someone came to help. It saved Terri’s life that day and gave everyone the confidence that Brody was a lifeline to Terri’s independence. No one questions the impact Brody has had on Terri both physically and emotionally. Terri is back to being herself and Brody is helping her “keep on going” while living life to its fullest.

Autism Assist Dog Gibson & Alex Nunes

Gibson's Journey to Alex

Sometimes assistance dogs, like people, set out on one path and end up in a very different situation. This is the story of Gibson, a lanky 4-year-old Labrador Retriever.

After his basic training with a puppy raiser, Gibson completed his formal training at Can Do Canines and was matched with a client as a Mobility Assist dog. When the client's situation changed, the family knew it was best to return Gibson to the organization with the hope he could help another client.

This change of events was lucky for a little boy named Alex Nunes of Carver, Minnesota because Alex was on the waiting list for an Autism Assist Dog at the same time. Bingo! The Nunes received the call they had been waiting for. Can Do Canines had a match for their son with autism spectrum disorder (ASD) and they were invited to come and meet Gibson.

"Our life was hectic," recalls Alex's mom. "We were in constant fear that Alex would bolt away or have a meltdown when we were out in public, and it affected our entire family."

The family liked to go on walks around the neighborhood, but as Alex grew it became increasingly difficult. His constant screaming and attempts to run away made this family activity uncomfortable. As he became stronger it was more difficult to keep Alex from breaking away. Walks were no longer possible.

The Nunes had a pet dog previously and knew the special bond Alex had formed with her and how she was able to calm him down. After the dog passed away, the family began to wonder if an assistance dog could provide even more support for Alex and they decided to apply for an Autism Assist Dog through Can do Canines.

When the call came to meet Gibson, everyone was excited. Almost immediately they could see the benefits of the dog for the whole family. Alex no longer screamed when out in public. Instead he focused on his dog, proudly holding on to the handle of Gibson's cape.

Gibson anchors Alex and keeps him from running into dangerous situations. The security of being attached to the dog appears to provide Alex with the comfort he needs and allows the whole family to enjoy their favorite activities again.

Gibson's duties go beyond physical help for Alex. His presence is a calming factor in what used to be stressful situations for Alex. During moments of frustration, Alex has been heard to ask Gibson for a hug. Just being with him on the floor seems to provide Alex with a respite from his anxiety.

It appears that Alex provides the same for Gibson. He knows he belongs to Alex and demonstrates it every day as the school bus approaches. When the bus rounds the corner he howls with happiness in anticipation of "his boy" returning home again.

Capital Campaign The Campaign for Independence

In 2008 the Can Do Canines leadership launched a 4.4 million dollar, multi-year Capital Campaign in anticipation of the purchase of a permanent home for the organization. The Campaign for Independence successfully raised 65% of its goal by the end of 2010 allowing the organization to purchase and move into a state-of-the-art facility in New Hope, Minnesota. Capital Campaign funds are different from general operating funds in that they are designated for the sole purpose of the cost of construction and improvements to a building. Capital Campaign fundraising is a one time donation specific to providing facilities where the organization can be housed and meet their mission. As the campaign moves into its third year, the campaign team will work to generate the remaining funds needed to complete the building that will provide the physical space needed for the long term goals of the organization.

Pictures of the 330 graduate teams are displayed at Can Do Canines new facility.

Legacy Club

The Legacy Club honors two groups of generous individuals: those who, while living, inform Can Do Canines of their intentions to include us in their will or planned giving device, and those who have passed on (indicated with a D) and already made bequests to further our work. We are grateful for their faith in Can Do Canines.
